LARGE REPUBLICAN VOTE INDICATED.

If the weather forms a barometer of political affairs, then this was certainly a Republican day throughout the state of Vermont. Republican managers say it, and Democrats admit it, that if the weather be fine it indicates a large Republican vote in the country districts where the farmers have to go a long distance to do their voting. On the contrary, if the weather is disagreeable, then a cutting down of the Republican vote is looked for, for the very reason that the farmers cannot easily travel from three to ten miles to cast their ballots. Whether this political prognostication is of value will be demonstrated in today's election. We have had a beautiful late summer day. Now add to this that the farmers have had one of their own class to vote for. The combination of circumstances should be sufficient to roll up a large Republican majority for governor—at least 25,000. If that is not done then the farmers of Vermont will be largely responsible. As in any election there will be side issues which tend to cut down the plurality, but the influences for a big vote should preponderate them. The Republican majority, from indications, should be large.

Probably the thing that is interesting the Republicans as much as anything is the question to come before the board of civil authority at Barre this evening, whether or not the name of J. Hollister Jackson, the Republican candidate for state's attorney, will appear on the check list.—Saturday's Montpelier Argus.

That was not half so interesting as the query regarding how the Fusionists were going to keep it off the check list. The attempt was bottomless.

Montpelier is up to date. In the warning for the election today the office of county commissioner was included, although that office died a natural death when the prohibitory law was superceded two years ago. The prohibitory law, with the city agency adjunct was always more or less popular in the neighboring city.

The Democrats of Washington county are getting over-ambitious when they claim that they will elect seventeen representatives in the twenty towns of Washington county. Besides they are greedy.

With so many "lies nailed" in this campaign just closed, Vermont politicians will soon get reputations as very proficient descendants of Ananias.

And Merchant street will be the residing place of our next city representative. How do we know? Why, just naturally.

Chicago's population is said to be decreasing. With the multiplicity of murders committed there, it is little wonder.

The heavens wept at intervals yesterday but that couldn't squelch the observance of Labor Day in Barre.

The Japanese celebrated Labor Day by hammering away at the Russians.

Such a let down—base ball and politics both concluded.

JIN-LES AND JESTS.

Summer Romance.

A little gold,
A walk or two,
A little wait,
A talk or two,
A moonlit porch,
A ring or two,
An ardent sigh,
A kiss or two,

A day or two,
A little note,
A gown or two,

To Be Sure.

"Oh, dear, dear! How shocked and grieved your poor father would be to see you two naughty boys smoking like this at your age!"
"Father! These are his most expensive cigars!"

Here's an opening for every man in Barre. Here's the real genuine stuff—everything in the line of Clothing for men and boys. The characteristics of the new styles are: Coats, longer and looser. This gives size to a man if the coat is cut by an expert, but if by an ordinary tailor the result is slouchiness. The Vest opens deeper, giving a chance for Scarfs to assert themselves. Trousers are medium for conventional men and full for extremists.

ABOUT THE STATE.

Items of Interest Gleaned From Our Exchanges.

Middlebury College will be opened Thursday, Sept. 22. It is expected that an unusually large freshman class will enter this fall.

The Rt. Rev. A. C. A. Hall of Burlington, bishop of Vermont, who has been passing three months in Italy and the Austrian Tyrol for the benefit of his health, writes that his health is greatly improved and he expects to sail from Genoa September 8, reaching Burlington about the 23rd.

It is said that the report of sickness at the boarding house of the Fuller Lumber Co. at Manchester Depot was very much exaggerated. One young man, Harry Mowbray, was ill and died, but there are no other cases of illness and that portion of the town is remarkably free from illness of any kind.

No-license seems to be working very satisfactorily in Belows Falls says the Times. The no-license feature of the law is proving an improvement on prohibition, and a marked improvement over license. Those who are looking for regulation which will reduce public drunkenness to the minimum are very well satisfied with the present arrangement.

ELECTROCUTED AT AUBURN.

Versacia, Murderer of Angelica Woman, Shares Accomplice's Fate.

Auburn, N. Y., Sept. 6.—One more mortal has been sent into eternity by State Electrician Davis, making the twenty-first electrocution at his prison. The victim was Giuseppe Versacia, the accomplice of the late Antonio Giorgio, who was electrocuted last Tuesday for the dual murder at West Almond, Allegany county, in May last. On the trial it was proved that Giorgio killed Van Gorder in Versacia's presence and compelled the latter to kill Miss Farnham, half sister of the first victim.

Versacia entered the death chamber with a slouching gait, a hunted expression upon his face, a crucifix tightly clutched in one hand. He did not begin praying aloud until seated in the chair, when he kissed the sacred emblem in his hand and surrendered it to his confessor, Rev. Father Canall of St. Bernard's seminary of Rochester. His supplications were then uttered rapidly and incessantly. Even after the mask had been buckled over his face he continued to exclaim in a high key and in his native Italian, "O Lord, pardon me!"

In the midst of one of these trembling repetitions the first shock of 1,750 volts 7 amperes overtook him, and all was still as death.

The electrocution proper, from the time the victim entered the room until he was pronounced dead, had occupied just three minutes. Versacia was only twenty-one years of age. Relatives have not made any application for the body, and it will be buried in the state lot in quicklime. There are four more occupants of the cells for the condemned.

Elevated Strike Still Likely.

New York, Sept. 6.—The national heads of the three organizations including the elevated road employees have sent a reply to the Interborough Rapid Transit company rejecting any quiet Belmont's peace proposals, renewing their old demands for $3.50 and a nine hour day for subway motormen and making new ones. Superintendent Hedley received the reply in the absence of Mr. Belmont. He said that the old demands were reiterated, but declined to go into details about the new ones. The men asked for another conference, but Mr. Hedley said he did not know when this could be arranged.

Death of Hole-In-the-Day.

White Earth, Minn., Sept. 6.—Joseph Woodberry Hole-In-the-Day, son of the distinguished Chippewa chieftain Hole-In-the-Day of the Chippewa Nation of Minnesota, is dead, aged forty-five years. His eldest son, Clarence Woodberry of San Francisco, will succeed to the title and chieftainship.

MRS. JONES LOSES GEM.

It Had Formed Part of a $300,000 Necklace.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 6.—A report has gained currency here that Mrs. Pembroke Jones while attending the "white ball" given by Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs last month lost a magnificent diamond from her diamond necklace, which is said to be valued at $300,000. The value of the single stone lost is not known. The jewel, it was said, was not missed until after the cotillon. Then a search was made, but it proved unsuccessful.

Mrs. Jones, it is said, then reported the affair to Mrs. Oelrichs, and the house was hunted, but again the effort was in vain. The loss did not become known until detectives in the house reported that they were unable to find the missing gem.

The lost gem, it is reported, is one of the most valuable in the necklace, a facsimile of which, it is understood, is now on exhibition at the world's fair in St. Louis.

Plehve's Assassin Has Not Escaped.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 6.—There is no truth in the statement printed in London that Sassoun, the murderer of Interior Minister von Plehve, has succeeded in escaping from prison.

TALES OF CITIES.

The public library at Nashua, N. H., has this sensible rule: "No person is allowed to have in his possession any one paper more than twenty minutes."

Hurley, Wis., appears to be the champion bad town of the country. With a population of only 1,800 people it has forty-seven licensed saloons and six gambling houses.

During the summer nearly 1,000 cart loads of ashes and more than 300 cart loads of waste paper and old bottles and rags are disposed of daily in Brooklyn, and in winter the amount of ashes is increased two and one-half times, to say nothing of the garbage.

STATE LINES.

Minnesota has 10,000 Indian mounds. Missouri has farms below the Mississippi river level.

In ten years Maryland has jumped from fifth to third place in the willow ware industry of the United States, ranking now next to New York and Pennsylvania.

In the twelve states where there is most child labor the whole number of children under sixteen employed is 123,760. Pennsylvania ranks first with about 34,000. Missouri is lowest on the list with between 4,000 and 5,000.

San Francisco Harbor.

San Francisco may claim to have the most capacious natural harbor and also the safest. Port Phillip bay, the chief harbor of Victoria, Australia, is larger than the bay of San Francisco, but its very breadth leaves it exposed to storms from certain quarters.
